Blue since 1886, when the Ithmoan's showed a forming wake to the Cambridge crew, Harvard and Cornell, trained to an unusual degree of perfection for so early in the season, met unusually keen. Cornell, on account of her prortige, was easily the favorite, but the knowledge that Harvard this year has one of the fastest eights in all her history left room for a feeling of anxiety in the New York State supporters. The fact, also, that Harvard this year has for the first time in her roing history a professional coach, made the event an important one as showing whether Harvard this year was destined to break her long series of aquatic defeats.

Three other rops preceded the 'varsity, all of which were witnessed from launches and from a grand stand-precited at the finish. The enthusiasm of the
